OFFICE PRESENTATION PROPOSAL

INDOOR AIR QUALITY: A REALTORS GUIDE TO THE MYTHS AND REALITIES

Most home buyers today are aware of the threat moulds pose to health and well-being. Lesser known is the much bigger picture on Indoor Air Quality (IAQ). On average most people spend 90% of their time indoors and unknowingly suffer a constant bombardment from thousands of contaminants which can cumulatively weaken the immune system. There are solutions and this presentation will give realtors a good general understanding of Indoor Air Quality myths and realities, and provide a simple and practical list of actions that can be taken to improve the indoor environment.

TOPICS COVERED:

- Why do some houses feel good and others just don't?
- How significant is mould?
- How can Indoor Air Quality be measured?
- A thousand contaminants; what to look for
- Remedies and resources
- Summary Comments
- Q&A

JOHN SCHIFFER, Registered Home Inspector (RHI) and well known owner of QUALITY HOME INSPECTIONS LTD. has an exceptional knowledge of home health and livability issues derived from years of specialized training and a lifelong interest in understanding what makes a home feel good. This presentation will personally benefit those who attend, as well as provide a good basic background on the subject that realtors can pass on to their clients, whether on the buying or selling end of a transaction. John has inspected thousands of residential properties in the Greater Vancouver area since 1995 and is well respected for his professionalism and building knowledge. In addition to regular ongoing professional development, John has extensive specialized training in Indoor Air Quality and Building Moulds. A popular presenter, John combines the confidence of his years of inspection experience with his quick-witted humour to educate his audience in a lively and entertaining presentation.

This office presentation can be modified to address specific areas of concern and the 45-minute length adjusted to accommodate your time requirements. Hand-outs will be available and our FREE Phone Consultation Service will be in effect for all realtors who attend the presentation.

Please call (604) 271-7177 to schedule a presentation.
Thank-you for your interest.
